Textile room zoning for creative cooperation.

Starting Point

Lufthansa Group needed a flexible working environment that encourages creative collaboration and is adaptable to evolving team dynamics.

Solution

A flexible new-work environment was designed in which the acoustic fabric LORD was used specifically for room zoning, while JASPIS ensures a harmonious interior. These textile solutions create clear boundaries for concentrated work, co-creation and meetings without compromising the openness of the space. The acoustic and visual properties of the fabrics promote a productive and creative atmosphere that encourages dialogue between employees, customers and partners.
