Bank Hotel – Stockholm

Gentle transparency for urban retreats.

Starting Point

During the renovation of the Bank Hotel, a high-quality, transparent curtain fabric was sought for the guest rooms and selected areas that would allow daylight to enter while also providing the desired privacy. The textile should complement the existing interior and create a warm, inviting atmosphere.

Solution

The transparent curtain fabric JASPIS was chosen to meet these requirements. The fabric impresses with its elegant drape, fine structure and high-quality transparency, which gently filters daylight without completely obscuring the view. Used in a warm off-white tone, JASPIS contributes to a bright, cosy and luxurious atmosphere.

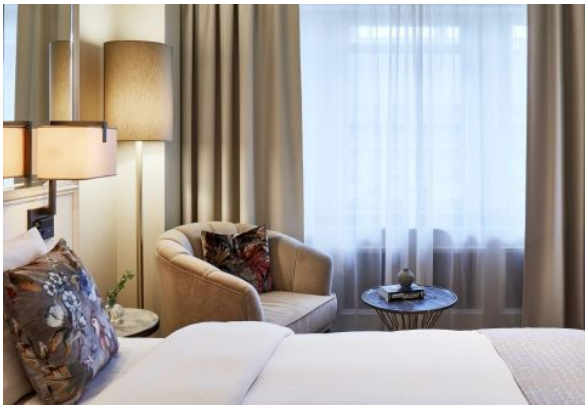

JASPIS is also used in the hotel bar, where the fabric further emphasises the elegant lighting and creates a harmonious transition between the public areas and the private guest rooms.
